BOYKIN POSTPONES
NEW INDICTMENTS

Solicitor Reports That He Is Not Ready to Present
Other Carnes Evidence to Grand Jury.

The motor car which Clinton S. Carnes, embezzling treasurer of the Baptist home mission board, gave to his protegee, Sonia Norida, Norwegian beauty, who attempts to get into the movies he financed, has become the property of Louise Pope, chaperon of Son's, and Miss Lois Griffin, another of Carnes' proteges. The Constitution was informed Tuesday by the California state division of motor vehicles.

Telegraphic information from the board's headquarters said the car, a Nash coupe, was registered under Mrs. Pope's name and the Motor Car Loan company, of Los Angeles, indicating that the company had a mortgage on it. The state board reported that the car originally had been the property of Miss Norida but had been transferred to Mrs. Pope.

Car's Recovery Planned.
Thomas Howell Scott, receiver for Carnes holdings, already has announced that he will take legal steps to recover the car, dispose of it and turn over the proceeds to the mission board to assist in making good the losses the board suffered through Carnes.

Meanwhile, the defaulting treasurer is in the Fulton county jail, awaiting trial on three embezzlement indictments, with a number of other indictments expected to be returned against him. Further consideration of his case by the grand jury which was set for Tuesday was postponed by Solicitor General John A. Boykin. "We were not quite ready to present the other Carnes evidence and I do not want any faulty indictments," Mr. Boykin said, adding that he believed it better "to be sure and get it right."

It was revealed Tuesday that Walter R. Brown, attorney and leading Baptist layman, had amended a plea for the car to the mission board of the board. The amendment named Dr. D. A. Gray, acting board treasurer; Dr. A. J. Barton, office secretary of the Phoenix Realty company; H. M. Willet and Solicitor General Boykin as co-defendants.

Faulty Investigation Charged.
In the suit Mr. Brown charges that Dr. Gray, Dr. Barton and Willet borrowed money from various of Carnes' companies "without sufficient checking" on Carnes, asserting that the companies had been liquidated and that Carnes could not have loaned the money. The loan of Dr. Barton already has been repaid and Dr. Gray has paid back at least $10,000 up for a loan of $5,000.

In connection with the suit Mr. Willet Tuesday issued the following statement:

"Several years ago I negotiated a loan through Mr. Carnes, supposedly from a Boston estate Carnes said he represented.

"During my absence from the city on vacation this summer Carnes disappeared. On my return I was informed by Thomas Howell Scott, Carnes' co-receiver, that the Phoenix Realty company (a Carnes company) held my note.

"The note has been paid in full, with interest. I never was personally indebted to Mr. Carnes. The transaction is closed.

Dr. Gray Tuesday stated that he had obtained a loan from a mortgage company with which Carnes had been associated, giving a first mortgage for the loan. "This mortgage was canceled two years ago and the loan paid in full at that time," Dr. Gray said.

"The mortgage was a matter of public record in the Fulton county courthouse."

100 BELIEVED DEAD
AS STONE BUILDING
FALLS AT PRAGUE

Prague, Czechoslovakia, October 9. (AP)—Collapse of an eight-story office building being erected in the heart of the city today buried more than 100 workmen, most of whom were believed to have been killed. Eighteen bodies had been recovered by 10:40 o'clock tonight.

Relief forces worked frantically tonight under the beams of searchlights to reach the entombed men whose appeals could be heard distinctly. The cries of relatives who were pressing against the police lines added to the horror of the scene.

The collapse was attended by tremendous detonations from the falling girders and hundreds of tons of masonry.

Standing of Local Educational System.

Bids for 13 new school projects totaling $701,000 will be advertised October 22, the Atlanta board of education voted Tuesday afternoon.

The administration department also submitted a first draft of the 1929 budget to members for study. No action was taken on the proposal at Tuesday's session. It aggregated a contemplated outlay of $3,684,485.00, which is $729,000 more than was allocated for school purposes for the year 1928.

A hard fight made on a $12,000 allocation of bond funds for the Rockdale negro school was lost by a vote of 9 to 4.

Projects for which advertisements will be placed October 22 and for which bids will be opened November 22 follow:

Bids For Schools.
Commercial high school	$100,000
Moreland avenue	70,000
Oakland city	40,000
W. F. Slaton	47,500
Highland	50,000
David Howard (negro)	150,000
Home Park	40,000
Peoples	50,000

Luckie street	15,000
Rockdale (negro)	12,000
Total	$701,000

Will Expedite Award.

Action of the board in voting to ask for bids as soon as all details can be arranged followed a meeting earlier in the afternoon at the office of Mayor I. N. Ragsdale where plans were evolved to expedite award of the contracts without delay after the bids are received.

Mayor Ragsdale called the conference which was attended by George Powell, president of the board; Frank H. Neely, chairman of the Atlanta bond commission; Alderman J. Allen Couch, of the fifth ward and chairman of the school committee; G. Lloyd Preacher, architect; Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of schools; Raymond R. Ritchie, assistant superintendent of schools in charge of business affairs; City Attorney James L. Mason and B. Graham Willet, city controller.

The mayor announced following the session that he would cooperate in any way possible in expediting award of the contracts. He stated that he would call special meetings of council when necessary to assure progress. Both Mr. Powell and Mr. Neely stated they would call special sessions of their respective bodies in order to assure early award of contract after the bids are received.

Heads for Negro Schools.
When the meeting of the school board opened Tuesday afternoon, Dr. Plato Durham, representing the Atlanta Christian Council, made a plea for preservation of the $210,000 which had been set up for negro schools out of the $3,000,000 school allocation for new buildings.

He cited the fact that negroes compose about 40 per cent of the city population and that a prorata share of the bond money based on the school population would be about $900,000 of the total of $3,500,000 devoted to school purposes, including equipment fund.

The effort to divert the $12,000 for the Rockdale school was designed to provide $7,500 for the Meador-Goldsmith school in the fifth ward, and $4,500 for the Sylvan Hill school addition in the tenth.

Those voting for the diversion were State Senator Nelson and Warren. Those voting against it were Landers, Gaines, Eubanks, Maddox, Burns, Hancock, Powell, West, Wilson and Couch.

Mr. Warren later succeeded in having a resolution passed asking for $15,000 for the Sylvan Hill school, and for the other two schools, if any are left. The board also approved a resolution offered by Commissioner Hancock, of the eighth, to set up a fund to complete the addition to the Tenth Street school and for repairs at the South Atlanta school.

On a joint resolution offered by Commissioners Couch and Maddox.

COBB DEMOCRATS
ORGANIZE COUNTY
AT MASS MEETING

Marietta, Ga., October 9. (Special)—At a mass meeting tonight, with an audience that overflowed the Cobb county courthouse, preliminary plans for an active county organization of the Democratic party were formulated at the democratic party ticket was formed.

Judge Joe Pottle was the principal speaker and was introduced by Judge New A. Morris. Judge Pottle brilliantly arrayed the republican party record, laying particular stress upon the unparalleled series of graft disclosures during the Harding administration.

Mrs. Mark Temple was named chairman of the Cobb County Women's Democratic club. Steve Clay, III, was made chairman of a similar organization for the young men of the county while the organization of older men will be led by Marion Doole.

WEATHER DELAYS
START OF ZEPPELIN TO UNITED STATES

Falling Barometer Serves
To Keep Dr. Eckener on Ground; May Start
Sometime Today.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, October 9. (AP)—An exceptionally unfavorable weather forecast today caused postponement of the start of the trans-Atlantic voyage of the Graf Zeppelin, which had been tentatively set for tomorrow morning. Dr. Hugo Eckener, who is to pilot the big dirigible, said, however, that he might be able to get away tomorrow afternoon.

A steadily falling barometer, coupled with a noticeable rise in temperature made conditions which Dr. Eckener said it would be insane to try to overcome.

Dirty Weather Ahead.
"There is a dirty weather hole right here which we would have difficulty in getting out of," he explained, pointing to the Friedrichshafen section of the map. "And we would have a still more difficult time getting out of another dirty hole on the coast, which I have constantly in mind."

Dr. Eckener and other officers of the ship have said frequently that their course would not be decided until the night of the dirigible is in the air. This sleepless town has gradually changed until today it is seething like a snail metropolis, but it is becoming more difficult daily to get past the guards around the airship.

Ship Is Ready.
The last complete overhauling of the ship was finished today. Supplies were checked up and the water ballast tanks were replenished. Stores of victuals were put aboard as was the baggage of the passengers limited to 55 pounds each.

Only one addition remains to be made to the personnel of the ship, a meteorologist, is yet to be decided. It was definitely announced that Lieutenant Commander Charles E. Rosendahl, U. S. N., commander of the dirigible, was to be aboard. So will Colonel Herrera, of the Spanish-South American Airship company, a concern which is thought to be considering the purchase of the big dirigible for regular freight and passenger traffic between Spain and Brazil.

HICKMAN COUNSEL ABANDONS APPEAL
After Five Justices Refuse Hearing, Walsh Gives Up Hope of Stopping Execution.

Washington, October 9. (AP)—Efforts to obtain from a justice of the supreme court an appeal for William Edward Hickman at Los Angeles, under sentence of death for the murder of Marian Parker, were abandoned here today after counsel for Hickman had vainly urged Justice Butler and Holmes to permit the case to be brought up.

Efforts will be made to obtain a commutation of sentence from the governor of California as the last hope of saving the life of Hickman, whose execution date is October 19.

His associate, Richard H. Cantillon, of Los Angeles, Hickman's counsel, will leave Washington this afternoon. They have sent a telegram to the governor of California asking for a hearing.

"I feel that my associate and myself have done all possible for our client and we have exhausted every possible legal remedy," said Walsh. "We will now urge the governor to commute the sentence."

Walsh yesterday interviewed Justices Van Devanter, Brandeis and Sutherland, urging each to grant him an appeal, insisting that Hickman had not received a fair trial.

Today he and his associate called upon Justice Butler but found him as unwilling as the other justices to bring up the case. Failing in an appointment to see Justice Stone, Walsh and Cantillon put the case before Justice Holmes, who also refused to interfere.

Walsh then concluded it would be useless to see the other four members of the court.

GOVERNOR YOUNG TO DENY CLEMENCY.

San Francisco, October 9. (United News)—Clemency will not be granted to William Edward Hickman, condemned slayer of Marian Parker, by Governor C. C. Young, of California, unless something unusual is brought to his attention, the state executive said here tonight.

Attorneys for the young slayer have indicated their final hope to stop the execution a week from Friday morning would be a commutation of sentence by Governor Young.

"No plea for clemency will receive consideration from me unless it is accompanied by new facts which will change my whole understanding of this case," Young said.

Thousands of persons witnessed the passage of the silver-colored dirigible as it sailed through northern Texas, traversed Oklahoma and cut northeastward across Kansas during the day on a direct line between Fort Worth and Chicago.

Other thousands were on watch tonight along the course to Chicago. The announced itinerary would carry the dirigible through northern Texas, through Oklahoma and cut northeastward across Kansas during the day on a direct line between Fort Worth and Chicago.

Governor Confers With Franklin D. Roosevelt at Favorite Campaign
Headquarters, His Hotel

HAS LOST ONCE
FROM THAT OFFICE

Foreign Relations, Tariff and Immigration To Be Covered in Speeches
Next on Schedule.

BY PAUL R. MALLON.
United News Staff Correspondent.
New York, October 9. (United News)—Governor Alfred E. Smith cocked his feet up on the table of what he calls his "lucky headquarters" here tonight and smoked a round of cigars in conference with his campaign leaders, thrashing out details of his southern trip.

The governor arrived here from Albany at 4:30 p. m., and went immediately to his hotel suite. He would not go anywhere else.

"I never lost a campaign there but once; that's my lucky headquarters," he said, as he lifted his brown derby from his perspiring head to wipe his face. He called in John G. Raskob, his campaign manager; Franklin Roosevelt, his democratic nominee for governor, and a few other friends.

They discussed the New York state situation which they believe has been cleared up considerably from their standpoint by the nomination of Roosevelt and they talked over the exigencies to be met when Smith leaves here at 10 p. m. Wednesday to visit four cities in North Carolina Thursday, two in Tennessee Friday, and one in Kentucky Saturday.

Smith announced before the conference began that he intended to answer republican attacks upon his tariff policy and deal with foreign relations in detail in two of the 12 speeches he expects to make between now and election day.

"When I speak on tariff, I'll straighten out all this nonsense being put out by Senator Curtis and others," the governor said when he was asked for comment on Curtis' speech. Curtis denounced the resignation of Raskob on the ground that the resignation was promised if Raskob could be shown that Smith had induced the resignation of Raskob. "I don't think Raskob will do that," Smith said with a twinkle in his eye. "And I don't think Senator Curtis has read my speech, or he wouldn't have said what he did."

When asked about the Muscle Shoals situation issued by his opponent, Herbert Hoover, the democratic nominee said he had not read the newspapers during the day. He said he understood that the republicans would never fail to get government control of power resources.

Raps Power Stand.
"That's the important thing as I see it," Smith said. "The republican party is never going to get the sale of the St. Lawrence river but they did think seriously about leasing it for fifty years, until I told the people of New York that we were trying to do. They only quit when they saw the overwhelming sense of the state was against such a thing."

Roosevelt announced after his conference with Smith that he would campaign for the state as well as the state ticket in New York.

"I don't want to get the campaigns mixed up and I do not intend to join them," he said, "so I guess there will have to be two sections to all my speeches, one about the national ticket and one about the state ticket."

The governor and the candidate for governor reminisced about the past campaign experiences, Roosevelt recalling that he stumped the state as early as 1914 while Smith said he had campaigned "every two years since 1918."

Smith will have a large party when he starts south, the largest he has had in his political career. He will be accompanied by two daughters, Mrs. John A. Roosevelt and Miss Frances Quilman; Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson, wife of the artist; William F. Kennedy, a personal friend; Norman H. Davis, former under secretary of state in the Wilson cabinet; and Representative Joseph W. Byrne of Tennessee.

THE LOS ANGELES
BEGINS RETURN TO HOME HANGAR

Kansas City, October 9. (AP)—On its maiden voyage through the middle west the giant naval dirigible Los Angeles tonight was heading for Chicago en route back to its home base at Lakehurst, N. J., after a visit to Texas.

Casting off from the mooring mast at Fort Worth, Texas, at 9 o'clock this morning the big airship reached Kansas City as darkness was falling, and after circling the city at a low altitude resumed its northeastward journey.

Thousands of persons witnessed the passage of the silver-colored dirigible as it sailed through northern Texas, traversed Oklahoma and cut northeastward across Kansas during the day on a direct line between Fort Worth and Chicago.

Other thousands were on watch tonight along the course to Chicago. The announced itinerary would carry the dirigible through northern Texas, through Oklahoma and cut northeastward across Kansas during the day on a direct line between Fort Worth and Chicago.

From Chicago the airship will set a course for South Bend, Ind.; Toledo, Cleveland, Pittsburgh and Philadelphia on the way to its home hangar in New Jersey.

FLORIDA FLOODS
SERVE TO HINDER
STORM AREA AID

Many Additional Acres
Are Under Water as Lake Okeechobee Continues To Break Banks.

West Palm Beach, Fla., October 9. (AP)—Reported serious flood conditions in Lake and Sumter counties, some distance removed from the Lake Okeechobee hurricane area, caused the American Red Cross today to dispatch Field Director C. L. Barnes to make a survey.

Appeal for Red Cross aid reached disaster headquarters here from the Orlando Red Cross chapter, which stated that need for assistance centered near Oxford and Polk City and that flood waters from the Withlacoochee and Chittaway rivers threatened destruction of the bean crop in a rich farming country of the affected counties. The main highway has been made impassable and water from 15 inches to four feet in depth covers a wide area, the report said.

Meanwhile A. L. Schaefer, disaster relief director, returning today from Lake Okeechobee, where he went to survey flood conditions, declared that the relief operations and submerging additional acres of rich muck lands.

The lake inundation, he said, has spread from the southern regions of the Everglades to Clewiston and Moorehaven on the western shore and around the eastern rim up to Okeechobee City at the extreme northern edge of the lake. The waters have backed up 20 miles between this city and the lake, but there has been no exact report on the full extent of the flood. Schaefer said the power lines are being cut by the water.

The relief director said that Clewiston reported last night that additional families had been forced to move because of the rising water.

Lake and Sumter counties lie northwest of Orange county in which Orlando is located. The flood conditions attacked the problem with the declaration that "the undertaking of the democratic party is to serve the public and the power trust."

"Few subjects, if any, pertaining to national legislation have caused more discussion in southern California than the proposal to construct Boulder canyon dam for development of the Colorado river," Senator Robinson said. "Bills pertaining to the subject have been pending since April 12, 1921."

"Should the board of engineers which is directed to report to congress December 1, 1928, recommend a project designed to safeguard the reasonable demands of the states and of general public, with particular regard for public control of rates and distribution, no reason presents itself to me for the prolongation of the controversy."

After quoting the democratic platform on water power, Senator Robinson added that its sole purpose was to preserve the rights of the public.

"Governor Smith at Denver made clear his interpretation of this provision of the platform," the vice presidential nominee asserted. "Mr. Hoover has not defined his attitude on this important subject."

Senator Robinson, who arrived in Los Angeles this morning, was taken for a visit to the beaches and to the soldiers' home at Satalite. At Venice he held an outdoor reception.

SORORITY RITUAL
SAID AT CASKET
OF DEAD GIRL

Bloomington, Ind., October 9. (AP)—Standing beside her open casket, the members of the local chapter of the Pi Beta Phi sorority last night performed the solemn initiation ritual of the Greek letter organization for Miss Margaret Fraiga, who died while a pledge.

With Mrs. Noble Fraiga, of St. Petersburg, Fla., mother of the girl and a member of the sorority, looking on the official badge of the organization was placed in the casket and the sorority song was sung.

The ceremony was conducted at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Horace Blakely, grandparents of the girl, to whose home the body had been taken.

There were few visitors at the headquarters of the nominee today and he spent most of the day hard at work upon his Boston speech. This he expects to complete late in the week.

Alex L. Schlesinger, a Newark real estate man, one of the callers, said it was generally predicted in New Jersey that the republican ticket would carry that state.

Hoover also conferred with T. St. John Gaffney, a former American consul in Germany, who is doing campaign work among the naturalized foreign population of New York and New Jersey under the direction of the New York state committee.

One of the late callers at the Hoover headquarters was Governor Howland M. Gore of West Virginia.

D. A. R. Blacklist Enters
Court in Libel Action

WITNESS LIST SOUNDS LIKE BLUE BOOK

Morristown, N. J., October 9. (United News)—The snubs which Mrs. Helen B. Baldwin, small-town social leader and member of the Bounton, N. J., chapter of the D. A. R., received from other women after a newspaper clash with the Rev. William H. Bridge of Bounton continued to fill the circuit court room with famous names and sharp words today.

But it was evident that Mrs. Baldwin's libel suit for $5,000 against the pastor was drawing to a close. It is based on Bridge's reply to an open letter from Mrs. Baldwin last January, when the D. A. R. member cited names from the famous "blacklist" in objecting to Lucia Ames Mead, pacifist speaker, as a lecturer in Bounton. The pastor's reply contained the phrase, "lying imputations," directed at Mrs. Baldwin's communistic charges.

Depositions of Jane Addams, Chicago social worker, and of Rabbi Stephen S. Wise were read into the testimony today and Thomas G. Harrison, of Boston, Yale divinity student, and Oswald Garrison Villard, editor of the Nation, testified in person. All their testimony was to the effect that they were not communists and that they had no communistic leanings.

Refuses to Apologize.
Arthur Garfield Hays, chief defense counsel, then called Mrs. Baldwin to the stand as a witness for the defense. The middle-aged D. A. R. member, still appearing somewhat flustered and indignant at the unexpected character of her patriotic acceptance of a "warning sheet" sent out by the Milwaukee chapter of the D. A. R., refused to apologize.

"You have heard the testimony of Mrs. Mead, the Rev. Dr. John Haynes Holmes, Professor Robert Morse Lovett, and the depositions of Miss Addams and Rabbi Wise?" he asked.

"I have," replied Mrs. Baldwin. "You have heard them testify that they are not communists and do not play the communist game, have you not?"

"Yes," she replied. "Do you now withdraw your accusations against them?" demanded the lawyer.

Mrs. Baldwin compressed her lips. "No," she answered firmly. "Do you apologize to them?" Mrs. Baldwin bit her lips. "I do not."

Lawyers Grow Angry.
Rabbi Wise's connection with the Sacco-Vanzetti case and Miss Addams' connections with President Roosevelt and Wilson and with Herbert Hoover caused clashes.

Joseph P. Cashman, Mrs. Baldwin's attorney, contended that Miss Addams "plays the communist game" by the mere fact that she is a member of the American civil liberties union, because, he said, it advocates unbridled speech.

Hays, chief defense counsel, is president of the American civil liberties union and he steamed with indignation as he pointed out to the court that there has been no evidence to indicate that the union was in any way communistic. He angrily characterized the statement as "an attack upon the members' patriotism."

There were times when it sounded like a mixture of Yodan and St. Michael, Ypres and the Somme as the slammers were rolled their heavy artillery into position and once more opened up the big blast.

In beating the Cardinals four straight and smashing all records just as they beat the Pirates a year ago, Babe and Lou stalked through this series like the four horsemen of the apocalypse—dynamite, demolition, destruction and death. And that spins out only part of the story. In addition, they were a pouncing pestilence, a mauling misery, a clouting contagion, a black plague of mighty wallop that continued to tear the right field wall and threaten the lives and homes of those benighted denizens who lived in gunfire range.

Between them in this last series, Babe and Lou set off the blast to 16 hits that included 6 home runs. They scored 14 runs—many more than the entire Cardinal team, and as they finished with a batting average of .350, they left in their brutal wake a thundering echo of destruction that will haunt this town as long as long-rusted canners still have their home runs in the first game here, so Cardinal pitchers began walking him as they once walked the blazing Babe.

After these two homers they passed Gehrig five times in a row. "So that,"

MISS OLGA BORGFELDT, at the Grand Hotel, Mackinac Island, receives instructions in gunnery. Her teeth receive three times a day the safeguard Pepsodent affords.

Blame Film for Cloudy Teeth

You must remove film twice daily. Now dentists urge a special film-removing dentifrice.

THE teeth of 9 people out of 10, it's proved, are dingy because a film coat covers them. Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel this film. It absorbs stains from food and smoking. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays. It is the chief cause of the common tooth and gum disorders. Gums by the millions breed in it. They with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Film must be removed each day. Ordinary brushing fails to do it successfully. So dentists urge the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent. No other way will make teeth as sparkling white. Write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 So. Wabash Avenue, Chicago, or ask druggist for full-size tube.

To sell Pepsodent for less would mean removing the costly agents for which dentists recommend it.

BANKHEAD HIGHWAY 80 PER CENT PAVED

President Kilpatrick Speaks as Road Association Opens Meeting.

The Bankhead highway, running from Washington to Los Angeles is more than 80 per cent paved. T. L. Kilpatrick president of the Bankhead Highway association, reported in his address to the convention of the organization at its opening Tuesday at the Hotel Ansley.

"The highway is paved through every state with the exception of New Mexico," the president reported. "There are some spots in the other states not yet paved but the work either is under way or contemplated. The state of New Mexico has a good hard-surfaced road from the Texas border to the Arizona line and we hope within a few more months to get that section of paving started."

The convention, which brings together delegates from each of the thirteen states which the highway traverses, was open with addresses of welcome by Governor J. G. Hardman and James A. Holloman, of Atlanta, a vice president of the highway group. Today's sessions will constitute chiefly in hearing addresses and reports of various officers of the organization and state and county highway officials. One of the features will be a talk by Mrs. Marie Bankhead Owen, of Montgomery, Ala., daughter of the man for whom the highway was named.

Committee reports also will be received at the sessions today, and the report of the nominating committee which will make known its selections for officers for the coming year.

PROPERTY OWNERS PAVING HIGHWAY NEAR THOMASVILLE

Thomasville, Ga., October 9.—(Special.)—No definite plan having been put forward by the Georgia highway board and no well defined intent having manifested to proceed at any time in the near future with paving the Georgia portion of the Dixie highway from Thomasville to the Florida line, 17 miles south of here, Mr. and Mrs. P. W. Harvey and Howard Hanne, owners of large estates on the highway, are having gravel laid from pits on their property and laid on the road where it skirts their land.

When the gravel is properly laid and settled they propose to have that portion of the highway oiled, thereby providing a high grade road which will be smooth, free from dust in dry weather, and that will not get slick or boggy in wet weather.

COLUMBIA REALTY DIRECTORS DENY SUIT ALLEGATION

Allegations in a suit filed by Jerome Jones, Jr., receiver of the Columbia Trust and Realty company, against W. S. Richardson, R. J. Hudson, Gaudin E. Russell and M. C. Kiser, were denied by the defendants Tuesday in a statement, which follows in full:

"In view of the publicity which has been given by the press to a suit in the Fulton superior court brought against W. S. Richardson, R. J. Hudson, Gaudin E. Russell and M. C. Kiser by Jerome Jones, Jr., the receiver of the Columbia Trust and Realty company, we desire to state that we are not parties to the suit and that we will file answers to that suit, denying specifically the charges made by the receiver against us. The proper place to try such issues is in the courts and not in the columns of the press. We deny that we have been guilty of any negligence or any misconduct in the conduct of the affairs of that company. Some of us resigned as directors many months ago.

"We are familiar with the transactions under which Kiser became a stockholder. We desire to state that the transaction was fair in every respect and Mr. Kiser paid full value for his stock.

"We have performed our full duties as directors of this company, and the receiver has no just claim against either of us arising out of the conduct of the affairs of that corporation.

"Proof will be submitted at the proper time and place to refute the charges made by the receiver against us.

DIZZY FEELING, HEADACHE, THINGS LOOKED BLACK

MR. F. E. McKINNEY, of 6 South Columbia Street, Lake City, Fla., says:

"I think I must have been about five years old when my mother gave me my first dose of Black-Draught, and later on, when I needed any medicine, she gave me Black-Draught. I cannot remember a time, in the last twenty years, when I haven't had Black-Draught in my home, or in my father's home.

"For a while I thought I wouldn't take anything, and that maybe I could wear out the headaches, but I found they were wearing me out.

"If I got constipated, I would get dizzy and have 'swimming' in my head, and everything would get black. I would have very severe headaches.

"I found that Black-Draught would relieve this, and so when I feel the very first symptoms, I take Black-

ARNOLD'S SPEAKER AT RALLY IN ATHENS

Enthusiasm Features Clarke County Democratic Meeting; Erwin Speaks.

Athens, Ga., October 9.—(Special.) Democrats of the eighth congressional district held an enthusiastic rally here tonight with Reuben R. Arnold, of Atlanta, and Andrew C. Erwin, of Athens, and other speakers stirring them to almost a frenzy of applause.

Charles E. Martin, Athens district committeeman for the Young Men's Democratic League, presided. Mrs. Frank A. Dennis, member of the woman's committee of the same organization, was the first speaker after Mr. Martin.

Thomas F. Green, Jr., chairman of the league for Clarke county, introduced Mr. Erwin, who in turn introduced Mr. Arnold. Mr. Erwin replied to an anti-Smith sermon by Dr. Len G. Broughton in Athens last week. He declared that Dr. Broughton said that Governor Smith stands for "the return of the saloon," whereas any "school child" with ability to inform himself, could know that Governor Smith advocates no such thing, but that because he wears the cloth no preacher has the right to "tell lies about another's political candidate."

He declared he is for the protection of the negro under the law, giving of opportunities for advancement to the negro, but "there is a certain indelible line that the negro cannot, must not, and shall not pass."

Mr. Erwin reviewed the fight Tammany Hall made for the south during the days of reconstruction, asserting that the republican party is now trying to make the south go back on its friend in time of need. He said Tammany was rotten in the days of Tweed, but that Tweed was exposed by a democratic newspaper and prosecuted by a democratic Tammanyite, Samuel J. Tilden, whereas when the Harding cabinet scandal was being unearthed not a word was heard from either Hoover or Coolidge.

Mr. Arnold began by declaring that this campaign is largely a whispering campaign, because the whisperers are afraid to come out in the open for fear the things they whisper would be refuted by the facts. He declared that Hoover and his allies, they don't approve of the whisperers but at heart they want it to go on because they think they are benefiting from it.

Mr. Arnold declared the republican party is as much of a "negro party" as it was in 1865, and yet it has the nerve to go and respect the white people of the south to vote for it, because Al Smith has them on the run.

Referring to the "political preaching" of the democrats, he said they should not be injected into the campaign. "They injected the race issue when they asked us to vote for the republican ticket."

Mr. Arnold reviewed the history of the republican party and its attitude toward the negro, and named the democratic nominees, Smith and Robinson, urging the large crowd to stand by the party in the face of the attacks both from within and without.

BETTY LORAIN PLANT

"Sweetest Baby in Georgia"

For over fifty years, mothers, like this well-known Georgia woman, have been telling each other about California Fig Syrup, and leading physicians have been endorsing it. Nothing else acts so gently and harmlessly to propel the souring waste from the delicate system of babies and children, which, when allowed to remain, keeps them cross, feverish, bilious, headachy, weak with coated tongue, bad breath, broken-out skin, no appetite or energy. Its rich, fruity goodness helps to give tone and strength to their little stomachs and bowels so they continue to eat normally, of their own accord. It helps to build up and strengthen them—makes them active and happy.

"I have used California Fig Syrup with my little daughter since early childhood," says Mrs. O. E. Plant, 365 Crew St., S. W., Atlanta. "Whenever she has a cold, is the least bit constipated or doesn't seem just right, I always give her a little, and it fixes her up quick. She's the picture of health, now, and friends say she's the sweetest baby in Georgia. She has never had a serious illness, and I give California Fig Syrup full credit for it."

Milam, on Peoples street in West End, Saturday evening at 8:30 o'clock. An artistic arrangement of flowers in pastel shades was used in the effective decorations. In the living room where the ring ceremony was performed by Rev. M. A. Cooper, an improvised altar was formed of smilax, palms and baskets filled with white dahlias and bride's roses tied with white satin ribbon, and tall candelabra added charm.

A program of music was rendered by Mrs. J. W. Pruett, pianist, and Mrs. Oscar Maddox, who sang "Because" and "Until." The bridal party entered to the strains of the wedding march from "Lohengrin" and "I Love You Truly" was played during the ceremony. Pickett, groomsmen, and her gown was yellow tulle. Mrs. Eloise Holmes, matron of honor, wore pink tulle. The attendants' bouquets were yellow Pernet roses and blue hydrangeas tied with white ribbon. The little ring bearer, William Murphy, nephew of the bride, wore a pink crepe suit and carried the ring in a large, Easter lily.

The bride entered with her brother, Jack Milam, and was met at the altar by the groom and his best man, F. C. Giles. She was lovely in a full model of gray crepe combined with lace with hat and accessories to match. Her bouquet was pink roses and valley lilies tied with gold lace.

THE NIGHTMARE

By GERALD MYGATT

SYNOPSIS. Patricia Shane is being entertained in one of New York's most exclusive clubs by Pauline Edgar. She is annoyed by the insistent stare of a hawk-nosed man on the opposite side of the room. At the table with the hawk is a blonde, coarse looking woman and a slight young man who appears to be drunk. The head waiter calls young Edgar away from his table on a pretext, and as soon as he is gone the hawk approaches Patricia and tries to engage her in conversation. He is interrupted by a good looking young chap who orders him back to his place. The newcomer introduces himself as Jimmy Kirkin. Patricia tells Kirkin that she thinks the hawk-nosed person had asked the head waiter to get rid of her escort. A fight ensues and Pauline Edgar takes to her heels. A few minutes later, as Kirkin leaves the place with his companion he is followed by a man on the street who appears to be drunk.

The hawk-nosed person, known as Bart Stoman, after taking the blonde woman home, makes for his secret hideout and there goes over a number of old newspaper clippings dealing with the mysterious disappearance of the 14-year-old daughter of Colonel La Verry, who offers a million dollars reward for the safe return of the girl. Stoman glances over the fact that the picture of Patricia Shane is identical to that of the girl in the cabaret with Pauline Edgar, except for a red birthmark shown in the picture.

The next day, which is Saturday, Patricia and Jimmy spend the afternoon together and then Patricia takes the evening train to her home in Far Harbor, Long Island, after Jimmy promises to come out to Far Harbor on Monday. Patricia goes to meet Jimmy at the station and is bitterly disappointed when he doesn't appear.

INSTALLMENT XXI. SOMETHING UP. The train gate was open, so Jimmy, suitcase in hand, began to wander. He sauntered up a long tunnel-like corridor, a familiar springing ground for commuters but mysterious to him; he climbed some steps, found another corridor and was moved to the thought that the place must be endless. Out of sheer curiosity and with almost half an hour still to kill, he paced to the end of this corridor and was confronted by more steps. Again he climbed, chose one of a half dozen doors and discovered himself again in the main waiting room of the Pennsylvania section of the big station. He moved on, studying the place idly with an eye to its architectural detail. Now he decided to buy a book and was about to start briskly for the place he thought a bookstore ought to be when some vague, disturbing influence, he never knew what, made him hesitate.

It was then that he saw Bart Stoman and Queenie Allison. They were sitting side by side in a waiting room bench, far in a secluded corner. Their heads were close and they were talking excitedly. The man had his watch in his hand and was looking at it, as though a train were to be caught.

Jimmy naturally did not know their names, but he recognized the instantly; the hawk-nosed black-browed man who had so upset Patricia by his staring and his unwelcome attentions that night at the Gilded Lily; the two plump, hard-eyed woman of the mustard-colored hair, now dressed and hatted in green, who also had done her share of the staring.

It was not surprising that Jimmy Kirkin put two and two together instantly. Here were this man and this woman whose interest in Patricia Shane, whatever it might be, had amply been demonstrated. Here was this greatest of second hand greatest of whatever it was of all railway terminals, whose sole function, as Jimmy saw it, was to furnish transportation to Far Harbor, Long Island. Two plus two equals four.

At 12:10 to the dot the two hats rose into the air. The man and the woman were now standing up. Their heads were still close together; Jimmy could see their faces and could also see that their talk was of apparent burning interest. The man, to all appearance, was driving some point home; the woman nodded and nodded again. Suddenly the man wheeled and stalked away. The woman turned, picked up a small bag, and chose another of the waiting room doors.

Jimmy held back a moment. Then with careful carelessness he looked at his own watch, yawned elaborately, stood up and walked into the main rotunda. The hawk-nosed man was nowhere in sight, but the woman was heading directly for an archway labeled "Long Island trains." At a distance of some 50 feet Jimmy followed her, stooping instinctively to disguise his tall figure and shambling by the same instinct to disguise his gait. But the woman did not look back.

Of course, Jimmy did not know that Queenie, long before apprised of his plans by Dopey Joe, fully expected to find him on the 12:15 train. Nor did he know that she cared little enough whether he was there or not; for Jimmy, though taken into consideration in Bart Stoman's new plans, was after all but a single human obstacle; and to Stoman, who believed in blackjacks only up to the point where gunpowder had to step in, a single human obstacle had been proved upon occasion to be a very frail obstacle indeed. Though Stoman disliked to employ lead bullets, he had never-less discovered that a tiny pellet of this common metal, used only when and where necessary, was a most effective means of ending argument. So Queenie, to whom Jimmy mattered little, did not bother to look around.

When Queenie actually bought a ticket and walked down the stairs to the Spearhead train, Jimmy found himself for the first time trembling. Now he knew. Something was afoot, some scheme in which this woman and that black-browed man were planning something that somehow had to do with Patricia Shane. Else why would this woman be taking this train? He shook his head helplessly, following down the stairs and taking a seat at the rear end of the coach in which the woman had just alighted.

After the train started she looked around once, a long, searching look; but Jimmy had been watching the back of her head so intently that he was able to duck forward in his seat and thus hide himself before her gaze pivoted his way. She did not look around again.

Through the whole of that ride of two hours and a half Jimmy whipped his wits for a clue to what might be up. But try as he might, he could think of nothing. Were they bootleggers? Possibly; but what earthly reason could bootleggers have for an interest in Patricia? Were they blackmailers? Perhaps even that; but blackmailers did not concern themselves with the lives of inconspicuous stenographers, no matter how lovely such stenographers might be. Were they kidnappers? Jimmy didn't know, but his reason told him they were not. No, he reflected, it was something else, something he had not been able to think of. For a moment he came close to the truth; the idea occurred to him that perhaps those two, if they really were after Patricia, were mistaking her for some one else, some other girl who looked just like her, some princess or millionaire's daughter or something. But Jimmy dismissed this idea as quickly as it came to him. He even smiled at it. Who on earth, pray tell, who on earth could possibly mistake Patricia Shane for any other human being ever created?

With that involuntary smile of his, a form of common sense came back to Jimmy. He found himself seized by the conception that perhaps, after all, he had been imagining the whole thing. What was more natural, he asked himself, than to think all other just because he, all of a sudden and out of a clear sky, was interested in nothing else?

"Naturally," he said to himself, and felt better. "Why, even if that woman should get off at Spearhead it doesn't prove anything. After all a lot of people live on Long Island. After all a lot of people must even go to Spearhead." He laughed with tolerance of his own previous imaginings, and added, "Why, sure."

But when the brakeman called, "Spearhead, Spearhead," Jimmy sat bolt upright. For the woman stirred, got to her feet, reached overhead for her traveling bag. She turned again now, but as she turned Jimmy slipped hastily down out of sight. The train ground to a slow halt, and the woman, peering behind her once more, climbed off. Jimmy was not there. Whatever happened, she must not see him. Wherever she went, he intended to follow her. It didn't matter for the moment about Patricia. He would see her and explain things later. But right now he must keep on the track of this mustard-haired woman in green. Follow her and let the rest take care of itself.

Then, still huddling back in the railway car, Jimmy saw something through the smoke-filled window. The woman stood on the station platform, irresolute, as newcomers to a town inevitably are. A man came into view; her face lighted and she hurried forward to meet him. The man was a little man, pallid and with washed-out eyebrows, and he wore gaudily handkerchiefs in his pockets. He, too, Jimmy's keyed-up apprehension, recognized instantly. The little man, the drunk, who had tried to follow Ted and him that night of the Gilded Lily affair! Of course! No question about it now. Something was up, something to do with Patricia beyond a doubt, and even he himself was in it.

The train was still pausing at the station, so Jimmy slipped carefully to the open window nearest the couple. He crouched there in time to hear the woman say, "Dopey! seem to be on this train, does he? Well, we'll have to watch out for him."
